Early Pregnancy and Gynaecological Ultrasound Course

Intermediate Level of the RCOG Ultrasound Modules

2–3 October 2017

Overview

This course represents the theoretical components of both intermediate gynaecological ultrasound training modules.

We have invited leading practitioners in this field to give up-to-date lectures in key areas. In addition, there are case discussions to demonstrate the use of ultrasound in solving diagnostic problems in real clinical situations. Video sessions provide examples of many common gynaecological conditions. They also give an opportunity to see rare conditions, which may present diagnostic challenge in routine clinical practice.

Ultrasound imaging is invaluable in gynaecological practice and this course has much to offer to all practitioners with interest in ultrasound including consultant gynaecologists, radiologists and sonographers.

This course supports the intermediate level modules in ‘Ultrasound in Gynaecology’ and ‘Ultrasound of Early Pregnancy Complications’, which are aimed at trainees who wish to develop their gynaecological ultrasound skills further.

Learning Objectives

After completing this course you will be able to:

- Perform gynaecological ultrasound examination in a safe and structured way
- Understand principles of differential diagnosis of uterine and ovarian abnormalities
- Assess women with postmenopausal bleeding using ultrasound
- Assess women with suspected early pregnancy abnormalities
- Learn about the use ultrasound in women with pelvic pain and endometriosis
